

STARMAN is a bizarre romantic drama, involving a confused and recently widowed Jenny Hayden (Karen Allen), and a stranded Alien otherwise known as 'Starman' (Jeff Bridges). STARMAN was in development for a period of four years at Columbia Pictures, before it actually started in production. The executive producer Michael Douglas was thrilled with the acceptance from John Carpenter to direct. "John's a fine choice for STARMAN. He's got a great sense of style and deals with action marvellously, essentially John has been waiting for the right love story to direct". Set in American locations from Las Vegas to Arizona, Tennessee and Washington D.C., producer Larry Franco commented: "Our aim is to show America at it's most beautiful and to that end

ARMAN

Far left and right: Karen Allen and Jeff Bridges are the star-crossed lovers in a race against time.

Top right: Karen Allen stars as the young widow Jenny Hayden.

Bottom right: Jeff Bridges stars as an alien starman who becomed stranded on Earth.

Top left: Jeff Bridges carried Karen Allen away from a fatal car crash.

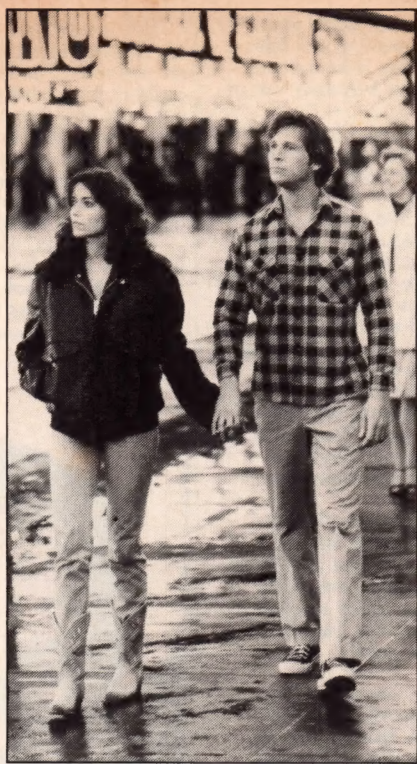

Bottom left: Karen Allen and Sean Alexander.

..... we've chosen some of the most beautiful locations in which to film". STARMAN is in no way an uncomplicated logistical film, and according to co-producer Barry Bernardi, for the finale there were 16 helicopters airborne over Meteor Crater, a raging forest fire staged in Tennessee creating the effect of the crashed space ship, and a massive road block in Nevada which required closing an interstate for three days to complete the shoot.

The cast, includes Jeff Bridges, Karen Allen, Charles Martin Smith, Richard Jaeckel and Anthony Grumbach. Director John Carpenter, Producers Larry J. Franco and Barry Berhardi, executive producer Michael Douglas. Distributed in the UK by Columbia-EMI-Warner.

ARMAN

Far left and right: Charles Martin Smith (left) and Richard Jaeckel (right) discuss the controversial topic of the alien visitor.

Top right: Karen Allen and Jeff Bridges explore the streets of Las Vegas.

Bottom right: Richard Jaeckel is a hard-nosed by-the-book government agent who can't wait to get his hands on the alien visitor.

Top left: Charles Martin Smith is a young scientist who fights the bureaucrats in order to save the harmless alien.

Bottom Left: Jeff Bridges demonstrates his alien powers to Karen Allen before returning to his mother-ship.